

Masters Course Guide

2017/2018

The EL Gazette listing of ELT-related masters in the United Kingdom and Ireland

Welcome to the EL Gazette 2017-2018 masters course guide.

Here is the Gazette's listing of MA courses in the UK and the Republic of Ireland in ELT, Tesol, Tefl, applied linguistics and related fields.

These include specialisations such as teaching English for Specific Purposes, teaching young learners, language testing, sociocultural linguistics, media-assisted language teaching, multilingualism and teaching bilingual learners.

This listing covers courses for the academic year 2017-18.

Most of the degrees listed are for an MA (Master of Arts), although some are for a MSc (Master of Science, usually taught in a science or social science faculty), MEd (Master of Education, usually taught in a university's school or institute of education), and there are a couple of MPhils (Master of Philosophy, a research degree rather than a taught course).

The latest info for academic year 2017-18 is given, correct at the time of going to press at the end of May. While some fees have gone up slightly since our last listing, many of them have remained stable since last year. Also, a masters in Tesol or a related field for students from anywhere within the European Union still remains noticeably lower in price than a masters degree in many other subjects.

While our listing is as comprehensive as possible, we apologise for any errors or omissions. We are happy to hear from any academics whose courses do not appear in this issue and will retain their information until the next time we run the listing. We are, however, unable to publish apologies or updates regarding courses for which we have requested information but not received any. We have updated the format of our listing: have a look at the key below and you are ready to go.

'The aspect I enjoyed most was working closely with such a diverse group of people. In the classroom and out, the connections with my fellow colleagues and instructors truly helped me make the most out of the program.'

Danielle Haughland, student of the MA Tesol at the University of Essex.

'I feel that my critical thinking ability has been improved. I have learned not to agree with all the information I get. Sometimes if I look at it from another angle, the things that others say might not be a hundred per cent correct.'

Yi-Wen Cheng, student of the MA Tesol at the University of Essex.
